

Severe Weather

There are certain times of the year, especially during the winter, when severe weather may require closing the library or delaying its opening. When either the director or his/her designee judges the weather conditions to be threatening to the safety of the staff or public, the library will not be open. The decision to close the library early will be made by the director if the weather forecast is indicating a continuing deterioration of conditions.

Library operation and programs may be cancelled in conjunction with school cancellations and weather.
